My most deepest sympathies to the Durant family and all who knew him. I personally will always remember my Uncle Bob as one who delighted in the simple and pure in life. One who always found reason to smile every day and knew how to help someone else to do the same if they were down. He never allowed you to feel unaccepted and always made you feel like you were 10 times more special than you realized. His smile and laugh will always be in my heart and will remind me that a happy life's testament starts with thinking of everyone else first and yourself last. Though I will miss him, I am happy for him that he is with his equally and beautifully spirited wife, aunt Verna.
