Where do I even start. Knowing Sydney for the past 19 years and being her bestfriend through everything had taught me so much and made me the person I am today. She has such a precious sweet soul that I will never forget. From all of our wild adventures from swimming in the lake, going out on the boat and jet-skis, music shows, festivals, playing in the woods, swinging from tree branches, riding through the city looking at lights on boring evenings always making them so adventurous and beautiful. She is more than my bestfriend, she is my sister, soulmate and other half. I have so much love and light in my heart and soul for this amazing woman. I love you always Sydney. Rest easy babe. I will never forget you, you are always in my thoughts. I find comfort knowing you are watching over me and I cherish every moment I have spent with you. Love, Maizie Mangiapane.

Devin Hopkins lit a candle in honor of Sydney.

My deepest condolences to the Machuta family. I hope the memories during this unimaginable time can bring some comfort. Where do I start.... Sydney had a beautiful soul. She was my other half, we were inseparable. We have so many memories that I will forever cherish, from endless sleepovers filled with no sleep and full of laughter, riding our bikes from her house to the boardwalk, walking to McDonald's, going to your family's cottage and going on the jet skis, swimming in Vanessa's lake almost everyday in the summers, to just laying in your bed watching Degrassi all night! I'll never forget when we were at Vanessa's house and all the guys were playing football around the corner and they'd be damned if they told us girls we couldn't play too. You ran right in and grabbed the football and sure showed them up. I'd give anything to go back in time and replay our memories over and over. You made everything brighter, you were the light to everyone's life and left a mark on anyone who had entered your life. You were the most caring, selfless person I had ever met. I can still remember your smile to this day, and what I would give to see it one last time. Someone once told me we were the legends of our childhood. There was no Sydney & Devin of our childhood, no friendship after ours that was comparable. You always called me your boyfriend number two (b.f.n.t) because no matter what, we both were irreplaceable to each other and had to make it known no guy was going to take each other's place in either of our lives. I know you're watching over me now, you will always have a special place in my heart. May you rest easy now, b.f.n.t♥ I love you forever & always best friend.

💖 There are so many memories of Syd that I have been gifted with these memories I will treasure forever. Remembering when the girls were young kids and the things they did like sleepovers (no sleeping just laughing and staying up), trips to DQ, going to the movies, going on little trips with us she was part of our family. All of the above have wonderfully cute and mischievous stories attached to them. SYDNEY You are love now just as you were then. 💖 Joyce Bynum 😭
