Bob was a neighbor and quickly became an acquaintance, a friend, and a wonderful person share memories of living in a beautiful area like the Detroit area. He shared so many stories that hit close to me, of the downtown area, of the neighboring suburbs, and truly shared the qualities of being a detroiter. I particularly was drawn to his love of his family business, his enthusiasm of the local area and people, and willingness to share that with me and listen to my experiences. I was devastated when I learned of his passing, and disappointed that I could not give him a last friendship hug. He truly meant the world to me in the two to three years of our friendship. I will forever be grateful for the Memories, and always think of him when the Cardinals thing in our backyard. Love you Bob. Dan.
